

Use of Taft-Hartley Act Nears in Steel Walkout

by J. Robert Shubert
United Press International
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7.—Government intervention in the steel strike through Taft-Hartley appeared imminent Wednesday as the result of collapse of 11th hour summit negotiations to end the 80-day walkout.

The White House-ordered talks apparently broke down completely yesterday at a meeting of United Steelworkers' President David J. McDonald, U.S. Steel Corp. Chairman Roger W. Bush and the top executives of four other of the nation's largest steel companies.

No new negotiations were scheduled, but McDonald said the U.S. wage policy committee, which must approve any contract settlement, would meet today. After yesterday's meeting, McDonald reported "nothing has changed." The companies indicated that matters had gone from bad to worse despite a renewed warning from President Eisenhower.

The President, from his vacation retreat in Palm Springs, Calif., said yesterday that the American people would not tolerate much longer the tug of war between union and management.

IT WAS the second Presidential hint in two days that the strike was not settled "fast" the Taft-Hartley act, injunction provision might be invoked against the steel dispute. This would lead to a return to work for an 80-day "cooling off" period.

The President invoked the Taft-Hartley provision in the steel strike last week by creating fast-finding board to report to him by Saturday.

BLOUGH, who heads the nation's largest steel company, charged after yesterday's 90-minute session that the union's demands are "unreasonable" and may increase over a three-year period. He said the industry repeated its offer of a 10 percent wage increase for a two-year period, which was rejected by the union.

McDonald confirmed the union's position, stating that the wage-policy committee remains the same. The proposal calls for annual wage increases of 15 cents an hour for the next three years.

WHEN ASKED whether he thought Taft-Hartley should be invoked, Blough replied: "That is something for the government to take care of." He said he had not specific plan to report to the White House on yesterday's session.

Quiz Winners Admit Rigging Of '21' Show

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(UPI)—A House subcommittee was promised testimony Wednesday on "a different angle" in its investigation of charges that the TV quiz show "21" was rigged to provide dramatic battles of brain power.

The promise came from Richard Jackson of New York City, a labor union organizer who won $24,500 during a single appearance on the now-defunct NBC program and then quit while he was ahead.

AFTER hearing Jackson, the investigators planned to switch their sights to "Datto," the first of several quiz shows taken off the airwaves in the wake of charges they were fixed.

The subcommittee heard testimony yesterday from two other former contestants that the "21" program was set up so that even the pauses between answers were planned in advance.

AT A CLOSED session tonight, the subcommittee expected to question two men named in testimony as the "fixers" who rigged "21" programs.

The lawmakers yesterday interrogated the showing of two hours of film clips of old "21" shows with testimony purporting to give the inside story of how contestants were coached on answers and gestures.

Lunik III Circles Moon; Russians Silent on Fate

MOSCOW, Oct. 7, (UPI)—Russia's Lunik III streaked into the unknown Wednesday from a historic flight past the moon. Cautious Soviet scientists issued only highly-educated guesses about the exact fate of the rocket which zipped a space-pace inch—4,375 miles—across the moon's equatorial region at 10:16 a.m. EDT yesterday.

The Soviet news agency Tass kept silent on the Lunik's known whereabouts after last night reporting the rocket "continuing its flight around the moon" after its unprecedented lunar passage.

Lunik Part Of Russian Space Plan

by Robert Musel
United Press International

LONDON.—British scientists say the Russian round-the-moon rocket is part of an eight-stage master plan for the conquest of space.

It appeared the Russian scientists were half way through their two-year-old program with their ultimate goal a manned trip around the moon and back to earth about 1963.

WESTERN observers treated with cautious respect the hints of things to come dropped by Soviet scientists in the wake of the launching of the Lunik III.

Said Soviet scientist Nikolai P. Baranovskiy, "The launching of the third cosmic rocket proves that we have entered the period of planned mastery of cosmic space and of flights to the moon and the near planets." This would mean Mars and Venus.

THE BROAD outlines of the Soviet plan are no secret, although the astonishing scientific left and the autos collided at the intersection, according to Gerald Mathews, BYU security officer who investigated the accident.

MATHEWS ESTIMATED damage at $350 on each car. The front of Brown's car was dented extensively and the left fender of the Lewis auto was smashed, the report said.

The officer urged students and faculty to take special precautions driving on the BYU campus during the morning rush hour.

Security Office Tightens BYU Traffic Controls

A tightening of all campus traffic controls began this week as a joint first week of orientation ended.

Capt. Leonard E. Christensen, head of the Brigham Young University Security Dept., said that the campus patrolmen had been "on edge" during the first week of school because they realized many students were getting acquainted with the campus for the first time.

EFFECTIVE THIS Past Monday all vehicles entering the campus to display parking permits and be parked in the proper areas. Student, faculty and visitor parking areas have been carefully designated.

"Be alert for signs and watch for speeding," cautioned the Security Dept. The campus speed limit is 20 m.p.h. unless a slower speed is indicated. Students are also cautioned to make complete stops at all stop signs.

CAPT. CHRISTENSEN also said that students who registered into who have cars must be sure to register them immediately. There is a $15 dollar fine for failure to register them. Students who do not have their plates or get a new car should also report that change as soon as it occurs.

Siamese Twins Given Chance For Survival

PORTLAND, ORE., Oct. 7 — (UPI)—Doctors gave Siamese twins separated by a five-hour operation a good chance for survival Wednesday.

The three-month-old twins, Jeannet Kim and Dennett Lynn Stubblefield, had been joined at the breast bone and liver. A team of four surgeons separated them yesterday.

Every hour they survive following the operation given them a better chance, a spokesman for the University of Oregon Medical School Hospital said.

THE GIRLS had been flown here the day following their birth in Nyssa, Ore., and remained under close observation until the operation.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Stubblefield, were staying at the home of a friend or relative. They left the hospital shortly after the operation and asked for privacy.

JAMES, 35, works as a beet farmer near Parma, Idaho. They have three other children, a boy and two girls ranging in age from one to four years, all delivered by natural birth.

The twins were delivered by Caesarian section.

THEY WERE put in the recovery room of the hospital right after the operation and a doctor said the 48 hours following surgery would be crucial ones. He added that if all goes well, they can be returned to their home in about three weeks.

The surgeons said they found a liver bridge and separate hearts. They said they had a "major problem" in closing the abdominal walls.

Jeannet, the larger by ounces, and Dennett weigh a total of 17 pounds, about double their weight at birth.

Good Conduct?

MEMPHIS, — Rodeo cowboy Ray (Kid) Marley, who flat-tented professional wrestler Sputnik Monroe at the Mid-south Fair last week over an alleged insulting remark, agreed Wednesday to participate in a wrestling "grade" match with the 216-pound Monroe next Monday.

DETROIT — Two policemen assigned to duty at wrestling matches in the Coliseum were escorting the villain of one match, Ali Bey, to his dressing room when an irate fan heaved a chair at the wrestler.

Bay ducked and the chair hit polo man Barry Wright. Wright's partner, William Berecki, rushed to his aid when someone else threw a punch at Bay. The wrestler escaped again and Berecki caught it on the jaw.

LONDON — Gilbert Bartholomew, managing director of a match firm, said Tuesday the Swan trademark was being

"We felt it had become rather old-fashioned," he said.

LONDON — Stockbroker Ralph Layton has won a court order barring further telephone calls from a lovesick woman doctor who called him 98 times during the past year and sent him expensive presents and countless cards.

LONDON — Swiss Ambassador Armin Daeniker was both diplomatic and honest Tuesday when asked to comment on the forthcoming matches between Swiss and English football teams.

"I don't know a great deal about football, but I think the best teams will undoubtedly win," he said. "Which are the best teams?"

Friday Deadline for Tuition Lessons Set at Mat Dances

Deadline for the final tuition payment is Friday at 4 p.m., Miss Mariel Thole, head cashier, has reminded students.

If students do not pay their final installment by the deadline, a late fee of $5 will be charged beginning Monday.

Miss Thole said also that students who have only temporary activity cards may now pick up their permanent ones in the cashier's office in the basement of the Maester Bldg.

Teach Dancing

Lessons by experienced instructors will be furnished at the mat dances Wednesday and Thursday.

The Duke's Combo will provide the music Wednesday, and stereophonic records will be played for Thursday's dance according to Jeff Matson, chairman of Central Dance Committee.

Mat dances are held in the multi-purpose area of Smith Family Living Center from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.; admission is 15 cents. Central Dance Committee has planned these dances for the student body and encourages all students to participate.

Bus Times Given

Buses for the Brigham Young football game will leave at 5 and 6 p.m. Friday.

According to Vice President Gordon Wells, buses will leave for the dance at Utah High Union Bldg. Jimmy's orchestra will provide the music.

There will be a $1.75 fee for the round trip.

Where possible, schools are being asked to subsidize the bus instead of going out.

Mechanical Brain... New Computer Center Gives Unique Service

by Margie Salabury
 Universe Staff Writer
 Students and teachers of Brigham Young University are very fortunate in having a new Computer Research Center.
 THE CENTER is located in room 208 of the basement of the Smith Family Living Center and is under the direction of Dr. Edwin Dean.
 One primary purpose of the center is to provide the opportunity for instruction, both credit and non-credit courses, of electronic computers and machine operation.
 RESEARCH facilities for graduate students and faculty is another main function. In addition, the center is especially helpful in aiding the counseling of students.
 Dr. Dean, a former student of BYU, received his B.S. in education and an M.S. degree in physics here. He also obtained a masters and Ph.D. in mathematics at the University of Michigan.
 DR. DEAN REPORTS that the center is now being used for scientific problems and research for about 80 hours a week. He believes that the center could prove invaluable to students who are majoring in mathematics or accounting.

Bear Increases Attractions For Hardy Tourists

A stepped up program to attract American tourists to Russia will get underway in 1960. Coming on the heels of Premier Khrushchev's visit, the new program reflects expectations of a greater influx of American tourists to the Soviet Union.
 IN HIS recent Provo speech, Utah's Governor Clyde urged exchange programs among the masses as a means of relieving world tensions. It is expected, however, that less than 25,000 Russians will include the United States in their vacation plans.

MAINTAINING the American tour company sponsoring the travels, estimates that next year some 25,000 Americans will include Russia in their European vacation plans.

LOSING STREAK SNAPS

Montana broke their 15-game losing skid Saturday under the Provo ares.

The mental attitude of the two squads was a remarkable contrast. Beaten in their last 15 outings, playing a team they "couldn't beat," the Grizzlies squashed managed to show the kind of spirit you might expect of a conference contender at the big game.

CATS GLUED TO BENCH

The Cats who had everything to lose, couldn't muster the strength to talk it up on the bench and encourage their mates. In a Monday interview Coach Stevens said that "We'll have to go with the same boys, they are the best we have and we'll try to get them to play up to their potential. They've shown us they can play during practices."

The Cougar quarterbacks showed almost no imagination, so far as mixing their plays is concerned. It seemed to take a third down and 10 situation to make the Cat signalcallers pass.

When the quarterbacks did pass they found receivers who unnecessarily hurried losses by tailback Keith Hubbs were the reason for the poor passing attack.

NOT JUST MY OPINION

BYU Coach Stevens agrees that the passing game and signal calling were poor.

"Our defensive ends are slow and they are going to hurt us all season," Stevens said. Whenever the Grizzlies wanted a first down they swept the end with great success.

"How about the Utah game?" "The most inspired team will win," replied Tally. "Will Nyle McFarlane be ready against the Utes?" Definitely not. "He may be ready in three weeks," said Stevens.

"When you're playing a team you expect to beat by 30-40 points, and you find yourself in the neck (6-0, 1), the second half, you began to grab bag to try and pull it out," Stevens said. "That's not the way to win games," he said.

United Press International
LOS ANGELES—Brawny Dick Donovan's back-to-the-wall relief pitching and one slender "go go" run kept the Chicago White Sox alive in the World Series Tuesday with a desperation 1 to 0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers which still left them trailing three games to two.

But they were alive, as they returned to Chicago for the sixth game on Thursday, after picking themselves up off the dusty, sun-baked turf of the Coliseum where they had lost two straight and hanging the defeat on young fireballer Sandy Koufax.

AND IT WAS Donovan, bowed in defeat in the third game, who came on in the bases-loaded eighth with only one man down and nailed two pinch hitters to swing away the tense triumph for big Bob Shaw.

A third straight record crowd of 62,796 shirt-sleeved fans—hoping to see the Dodgers reclaim the first World Series ever played in the Golden West—groaned and pleaded to no avail as the White Sox pushed across one lonesome run in the fourth inning and then fought frantically to protect it against a horde of Dodger baserunners.

The California sun tried to help, too. For it was its blinding rays streaming in from across the nearby Pacific which led to Shaw's undoing in the eighth; and paved the way for Donovan's heroics in one of the wildest innings the classic has ever seen.

WHEN THAT eighth inning ended, three pitchers had seen action as the rampaging Dodgers knocked at the door—the first time a trio of hurlers ever had been used to protect a shutout win—and Shaw had departed to be followed by Billy Pierce and then the big Massachusetts Irishman who went on to wrap it up.

The fireworks started in that dramatic eighth as Wally Moon teed off on one of Shaw's pitches and leaped it far out into center field. Jim Landis was waiting but the sun lanced into his eyes and the ball dropped in front of him for a soft single. Shivers got the next man, holding Moon on first and then he looked down from the hill to see red Hodges moving in.

HODGES, ONE of Brooklyn heroes who came with the franchise, hit Monday's game with a home run and the crowd roared and groaned — as he lashed into the left field corner — was fouled by a few errant throws. Manager Alvin Karpis marched to the mound briefly with Shaw, and then in Hodges greeted the team with a single to center. Shaw all the way to second. He slid safely into third with a throw.
